Children in need - What we do

In 2010 Nicole Mtawa, a German author, founded the Non-Profit Organisation Human Dreams e.V. in Schwaebisch Gmuend, Germany, following many positive reactions to her first publication “Sternendiebe ”, a true life story in Africa. Even before that she had been caring for children in need such as little Ganesh whom she had found emaciated to the bone in an Indian children’s home.

“Providing Comprehensive Care for Children with Special Needs or Chronical Diseases”

Our children were either abandoned, come from unsuitable homes or from families who are in dire financial situations. Many of the children suffered brain damage (Cerebral Palsy) during birth, while some also lost their mothers. In most cases, the children have never received therapy or medical treatment before.

Children’s Villages in Tanzania

In Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, we built two children's villages next to each other. While the first children's village offers a home for up to 30 orphans in need of comprehensive care, the adjacent Daycare Center provides all-day care for 50 children with single parents. All children receive special education, physiotherapy and quality medical care, depending on their needs. Our pool, playgrounds and trampolines, along with a sensory room, provide additional fun and stimulation.

Animal-Assisted Therapy Center in Namibia

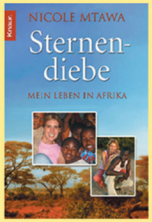
In early 2020, our organization purchased a farm in Namibia to provide animal-assisted therapy for children from the Windhoek slum who are in need of care.

Miniature ponies, alpacas, donkeys and other animals assist with the children’s therapy plans. The children are professionally cared for throughout the day in four children's houses. A pool not only offers a welcome opportunity to cool off, but is also used for hydrotherapy. A 100-meter summer bobsled track is planned to offer additional fun since laughter is, after all, the best medicine.

Children’s Home in India

In India, we took in our first child in need of full-time care in 2011 at our children’s home on the outskirts of Delhi. Milap was twelve years old at the time and suffered from bone tuberculosis and Cerebral Palsy. His parents had abandoned him as a little boy in an orphanage and so it was not only a matter of healing Milap's physical wounds, but also helping him cope with his mental scars.

True Life Stories about the Projects



In three memoires Nicole Mtawa writes about her extraordinary life and her projects. From the time, when she was only a student and started caring for children in need, up to now – twenty years later. Accompanied by her daughter Julie she embarked on adventurous trips across Europe in her Mini Cooper and a vintage caravan to raise funds for her projects. After almost two decades in Tanzania, Nicole Mtawa now lives in Namibia with her daughter Julie and continues to coordinate all projects from there.
